Christian Web Development Company, Urangatang.Com Offers Online Bible Devotionals

Ocean, New Jersey - Dec. 3, 2003 - Urangatang.Com, a global Christian web development company, has released an online devotional tool that helps individuals mark and remember every single Bible scripture that speaks to them. Recipients are encouraged to use the tool every day to read the Bible during their private devotional. There is no cost, and there are no strings attached.

"God has blessed us in many ways, and we want to sow that blessing back into the community," explains Linda Norton, President of Urangatang.Com.

Urangatang.Com is a full-service Christian web development company, headquartered in New Jersey, with offices and consultants located around the world. The company manages all types of business websites - religious and non-religious -- offering complete full-service solutions including site design, deployment, optimization for search engines and more.

Norton explains that recipients can simply tag the scriptures they want to remember and the Urangatang Devotionals system will do the rest. Says Norton, "Never again will you fumble for exactly the right Word."
