

PRESS RELEASE

March 28, 2005

URANGATANG BEGINS PREPARATION FOR A NEW TELEVISION SHOW.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Ocean, New Jersey – Urangatang Web Design, LLC is venturing out to begin a new technology driven television show, called Urangatang Investigates.

Urangatang will be airing this show in Naples, Florida as a test market, before moving the show into other markets. The show will air every other Wednesday at 7 p.m.

This new show will feature topics like new electronic reviews, viruses, upcoming products, and even a section dedicated to travel. The show is centered on the Internet, but focuses mainly on anything related to technology. If this technology uses or integrates the Internet in some way Urangatang Investigates will potentially cover it.

Urangatang is very excited to be taking the company into a new form of communications. As we continue to build the company, with excellent staff, and a good core customer base, we believe this is the right step for Urangatang to grow.

Urangatang Investigates will be available in any market. If you are with a television broadcast station and wish to receive a demo or would like more information on how to obtain the rights to air the show, please contact us.

Urangatang is a web design company that strives for excellence and affordable website design for any business or organization.
